CLEMSON AND FURMAN CLASH TOMORROW IN FIRST GAME AT CLEMSON IN YEARS

Turkey Day Game to Be Point of Interest in South Carolina

Tomorrow the referees' whistle opens the 1929 edition of the annual Turkey Day feud between Furman University and Clemson College. For years this classic has been attracting more and more interest among sportsdom until it has become a cherished ambition and an ancient custom for the Purple Hurricane and the Clemson Tiger to settle old scores on Thanksgiving. However poor the record of either team for the season, the contest has that old doubtfulness as to the winner about it that furnishes the rabid fans all the thrills that they can hold with the heavy dinner that they have just topped off. And this year is no exception.

Tomorrow Furman returns to play Clemson on Riggs Field after an absence of five years. The last time the Hurricane left Riggs Field, they trotted off the victors by a lone field goal. This year, however, they will journey over from Greenville the under dog. Clemson rules a strong favorite by virtue of the Tiger's 13 to 0 triumph over the Citadel which has tied Furman this year. Last year the Tigers won 27 to 12. Back in 1914 Clemson defeated Furman 99 to 0 and 38 of the points scored were tallied by the Tiger rats.

Besides holding the lime-light as a battle between traditional rivals this year's game will decide the Tiger's right to an undisputed state championship. That fact alone will mark it as a combat that will draw thousands of loyal supporters of both the Tigers and the Hurricane. This game rings down the curtain for both teams. Both are on an edge. Furman hoping to revenge last year's loss and Clemson desirous of claiming their first state title in some years. All in all the game tomorrow will pack all the color, the thrills and traditional rivalry that can be packed into a Clemson-Furman contest.

Clemson and Furman meet here Thanksgiving Day in their eighteenth game of a series which has

TAPS OFFERS PRIZES FOR BEST MATERIAL

For the purpose of obtaining interesting material for the Satire and Feature sections of the TAPS, two contests will be conducted. Both contests will be open to everybody and as many entries as desired may be submitted. Cartoons, jokes or other humorous matter will be accepted for the Satire contest. The humor should relate to the school or students in some way.

For the Feature section contest, snapshots or other pictures will be accepted. The winners will receive prizes, and any picture held for use will be paid for by TAPS. Details of the contest will be posted on the bulletin board. Start collecting material now and turn in entries to the editor in room C-1.

GOVERNOR RICHARDS AT CITADEL GAME

Sees Military Rivals Play—Cadet Corps Gives Due Honor to His Visit

Clemson was honored this past week-end by having as guests Gov. and Mrs. John G. Richards of South Carolina.

Governor and Mrs. Richards arrived on the campus Saturday morning, and had lunch in the college mess hall, where they were received with much applause.

After lunch the Governor's party was escorted to their special box seats for the Clemson-Citadel game by Dr. and Mrs. Sikes, and then followed one of the rarest and most picturesque scenes ever staged on the Clemson campus. The colors, the band, the drum and bugle corps, and the Junior Platoon had turned out to represent the college in paying the Governor the highest possible military honor. The drum and bugle corps sounded "Attention" and every cadet snapped to attention and saluted while the drum and bugle corps played "The General" which was recognized by the Governor in his official way. This is a rare honor and is accorded only to Generals in the United States Army and Governors within their own state. Immediately afterwards came one of the hardest fought and cleanest played football games seen on the campus this year. To prove to the Governor and to the spectators in general that Clemson was still a military college, the Junior Platoon gave a splendid exhibition of close order drill between the halves.

The Governor seemed to be well pleased with the welcome extended him by the cadets the faculty, and the entire college as a whole.

CLEMSON DIRECTOR ELECTED SECRETARY

Dr. Calhoun Elected to High Post

Dr. F. H. H. Calhoun, director of resident teaching in the Agricultural department was elected secretary of the Resident Teaching section of the Association of Land Grant Colleges at its meeting in Chicago last week. This election automatically carries with it accession to the chairmanship of the section next year.

The Association of Land Grant Colleges includes all land grant colleges in the United States. Its Agricultural Department is divided into three sections: research, extension, and resident teaching.

Dr. Calhoun has been a member of the Clemson faculty for twenty-five years, and for the past fifteen years has held his present position as director of agricultural teaching. He is one of the widest known geologists in the South.

CLEMSON REMOVES CITADEL FROM RACE

One More Step Taken to State Championship in Defeat of Charleston Cadets

Revenge was sweet to the big, ferocious Tiger that defeated an ineffective Citadel aggregation by a score of 13 to 0 last Saturday in a game that was exceedingly slow due to the very soggy condition of Riggs Field, the scene of the contest that was featured by much and varied punting. All but a few minutes of the four quarters was played by a second and even parts of a third string outfit of Bengals.

Just after the game started the beautiful green carpet on the Clemson field was transferred into a soggy mud that afforded a most treacherous footing. Due to the fact that smooth green sod, that has been a subject of great pride this season, has received such an abundance of rain during the last three weeks, it was only a matter of a very few minutes after the struggle had started until the grass had been changed into a substance that closely resembled the marshy land of the lower section of the Palmetto State. This absence of firm footing was extremely detrimental to the running attack of both aggregations. No spectacular gains were made by either team from the ground game. The only long gain of the day was made during the third period, when Woodruff received a forty-three yard pass from a Clemson Goat.

O'Cash Cody of the Tiger eleven deemed it wise to allow partially entirely a second string outfit to play the first half. This team held the lads from the West Point at Charleston scoreless and without a serious threat. However, their of

BOHUNKS DEFEATED BY PIEDMONT TEAM

Muddy Field Hinders Game

Last Friday afternoon the Junior College from the red old hills of Georgia, defeated the Clemson "Bohunks" 12 to 0. The game was a very unusual one, due to the way that the thrills of the game were furnished. It was played in a mixture of rain, wind, and mud. The fans were thrilled time and time again by the clowning of both teams. After each play, at least twenty-two players would get up looking like Indians, due to the wet red clay. Whenever a man made an attempt to tackle another and failed he would slide at least ten yards after missing the tackle. Probably this had little to do with Clemson losing the game, but if the game could have been played on a decent field the fans would have seen better football.

Long was the outstanding player for Clemson. Time after time he would break through the Piedmont team and throw his opponent for great losses. Solomon, Blakeney, Harvley, and Mann also played good game.

Sharpe was the outstanding star for Piedmont College.

PROFESSOR DOGGETT MOURNED BY ALL

C. S. Doggett, Head of Textile Department for Many Years, Dies Friday

Charles Stebbins Doggett, 71, for many years director of the textile department of Clemson college until his retirement two years ago, died at his home here at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. He had been in declining health following a slight stroke a year ago.

Funeral services were held on Sunday and burial was at the college cemetery.

Professor Doggett, a native of Massachusetts, came to Clemson college in 1905 as professor of textile chemistry and dyeing and director of the textile school. He had been well educated at Aberlin college and other institutions, had received his technical training at the best polytechnic schools of Europe, had wide practical experience in textiles, and his work at Clemson did much to establish the high standard of the textile school. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, a Mason, and a member of the American Association for Advancement of Science and other scientific bodies.

Besides his widow, who was Miss Sara Verity, of Bramley, England, Mr. Doggett leaves five daughters, Miss Marguerite, Librarian at Clemson College; Misses Lucy and Aline teachers in New York; Mrs. Finley Grisette, at missionary in Africa; and Miss Sara Frances, now in the school for nurses at Johns Hopkins university.

DEMONSTRATION OF ESSO IS GIVEN HERE

Mr. Naylor Talks on Advantages of Esso Gas

Mr. Naylor of the Standard Oil Co. gave a demonstration of Esso Gasoline and its characteristics in Riggs Hall last Friday night. Mr. Naylor's talk was on the advantage of Esso gasoline over ordinary gasoline.

In his demonstration Mr. Naylor used a small gasoline-engine driven generator set which ran with ordinary gas and with Esso. The gasoline engine was equipped with a device which registered the knocking of the motor which allowed a visible demonstration of the ability of an ethyl gasoline to stop spark or carbon knocking.

Mr. Naylor related the life-history of ethyl fluid and told something of the process of making it, as well as some of the ways it is used in the gasolines. He also gave interesting answers to all the questions put to him by his audience. The audience was small but was delighted with the demonstration and the clear-cut way in which Mr. Naylor presented his facts.

G. W. C. and Furman Hosts to State Scribes—Spartanburg to Be Next Meeting Place

Prizes for the best pieces of journalistic work done during the year by college students of this state were awarded and Spartanburg was selected as the meeting place for the 1930 convention at a banquet at Poinsett hotel, Friday night Nov. 22, which marked the close of the annual meeting of South Carolina College Press association in Greenville. Scribes of Wofford College and Converse College will be hosts to the convention next year.

Following is a list of winners announced last night: Feature story, Old Gold and Black, Wofford College newspaper; short story, Winthrop College journal; one-act play, Concerpt, literary magazine of Converse College; poem, Erothesian, Lander College magazine; essay, Erothesian; sketch, Bashaba, Coker College magazine; editorial, Parley Voo, Converse College newspaper; book review, Isaqueena, Greenville Woman's College magazine; news story, Spokesman, G. W. C. newspaper.

The Concerpt, of Converse, won first place in the state as being the best literary magazine, and the Johnsonian, of Winthrop, took first place among the newspaper, it was announced. The best publications were chosen by a committee of judges from out of the state, using three representative issues of each to judge from.

The best journalistic efforts were determined by judges selected from newspapers and English faculties of colleges and universities.

Bruce Thompson, of Furman, president of the association, acted as toastmaster Friday night as brief toasts were proposed by a number of the delegates. Music was furnished by Allen Morrow and James Dew of Furman. About 75 persons attended the banquet.

Officers of the association to serve next year will be chosen from the staffs of publications at the colleges acting as hosts to the convention next fall.

Dr. Carlyle Campbell, president of Coker College, Hartsville, was principal speaker at the open session Friday morning at Furman, when Furman students and a number of Greenvilleans were also present. He pointed to the influence of current magazines on life and views of college students and talked at length on the qualities of pure literature.

In closing, he urged the college writers to create an atmosphere of habitual beauty, noble living and correct thoughts in the students through the college magazine.

The Tiger was represented at the association by A. R. Ramseur and E. H. Crymes.

And again Thanksgiving is here. How many cadets ever stop to think of the real meaning of the word Thanksgiving? To how many of them does the word signify more than a feed and a football game and a holiday? Thanksgiving is a day set aside for giving thanks where they are due. It is a good day for all of us to check up and see to whom we owe gratitude. First in the list will probably be your parents. How long has it been since you told them that you appreciate what they are doing for you, the chance they are giving you? Don't you suppose they would like some little sign of appreciation? Better write home now and tell them that you are thinking of them and appreciate the things they've done for you.

About this time of the year the Seniors all become interested in one certain subject: "What am I going to do when I finish and who is going to offer me a job in this line of work?" Contact men from the large companies are already beginning to come around, not to offer jobs, but to interview candidates and make selections.

The question which confronts the senior is an important one. If he goes to work and after two or three years finds himself in a blind alley, he has to retrace his steps, and has lost two or three years of his life. Very few of the boys now know what line of work they wish to follow. In this condition the best idea, probably is to go into some line of work which is not so highly specialized, get a look at the field and the type of jobs, decide what you like, and then go to it. The years spent in the training will be of more aid than those spent in some specialized project not related to the type of work you decide you like.

Some of the boys do know what they wish to do, and they are indeed lucky. Those boys should work hard, try their best to make a good impression of the interviewer, and do their best to get the job. And if some other company offers you a job in a field different from the one you are sure you will like, better think a long time before you accept. You don't want to make any false starts, and the other company may not be as quick as this one—they may want you, but just haven't yet expressed themselves.

So when you go to get your job think long and hard, because the question at hand is one of the most important you will ever have to answer if you get along in life? Work hard, show that you are earnest, express your desires, and more than likely you'll land the job.

RIFLE TEAM STARTS PRACTICE

Small-bore Team Begins Training on Monday

The Clemson small bore rifle team began training for the 1929-30 session on last Monday, November 25. The room in the Y. M. C. A. formerly used as a bowling alley is to be used this year as the target range. Seven men of last year's team reported Saturday morning, November 23, and elected a team captain and a coach. Lieut. P. H. Kron, U. S. A. will instruct and direct the team this year. The team is to be under the supervision of the Athletic department. Mr. Gee, athletic director, has promised his full cooperation in this matter.

W. F. Hughes was elected captain, and H. W. Dorset, coach of this year's team. The other members remaining from last year's team are J. M. Prim, B. S. Rose, S. D. Watson, F. W. Lee, and T. I. Dashiell. These men will form the nucleus on which next year's team will be built however, they are by no means assured a place on the team. The team will consist of about twenty men from those who make the highest scores in a competitive elimination. A call for candidates for the team will be issued in the next few days.

Lieut. Kron who has charge of the team this year is a very capable instructor and an excellent shot, having won numerous medals in competition matches through out the country. Mr. Gee has promised his full cooperation, which is in line with the athletic program outlined by him previously in which he stated that he would endeavor to have as many different athletic sports at Clemson as possible. The rifle team will in all probability be rated as a minor sport.

The Y. M. C. A. was very generous in allowing the team to use the old bowling alley as a range. Mr. Holtzendorff was particularly active in securing this privilege for the team. It was found that the new gym would not be suitable for practice because of the other athletic practice which would be going on there at the same time, the noise would be a source of nervousness to the riflemen, and the constant firing, although perfectly safe, would be a source of nervousness to the other men in the gym at the same time. The new targets which have been practice in the Y. M. C. A. perfectly safe.

Matches with eighteen other college teams have already been scheduled, including the Fourth Corps Area match, and the Hearst Trophy match. Many more will be secured before the season is well under way. The season will probably commence about January 1st, and continue through March. An effort will be made to schedule a match with all teams in the state. Arrangements are also under way for a match with one of the best teams in the United States. All of the above matches are to be "postal matches" in which the results will be certified and mailed to the competitor. Shoulder to shoulder matches that is matches where the teams will be met actually, will be arranged in all probability for a few matches.

been played intermittently since 1986. In past performances, Clemson has won nine contests, Furman has annexed six, and two have been ties. Clemson has scored 352 points against Furman, while the Baptists have registered but 165, less than half that number.

With a clearcut state championship within their reach, the Tigers will put up a strenuous effort to keep their South Carolina slate clean for the season, and a great crowd is expected to witness the game.

REV. CAPERS SATERLEE SPEAKS AT VESPERS

The Rev. Capers Saterlee gave a very interesting talk at the Vesper Service Sunday evening, Nov. 24, to a very large audience.

Preceding the talk Mr. I. D. Lewis offered a beautiful prayer. Several songs were sung, after which Rev. Saterlee talked on "The Bible". He brought out the fact that man was incurably religious and should look to the Bible, which should not be taken literally, for his guidance. He said that sin was started by man trying to get something for nothing, as men do today. The speaker said that man brought sorrow on himself by disobeying God, and that we should not look back to the Garden of Eden for comfort, but to set as our goal toward that Paradise which Jesus has prepared for us, and which is much more glorious than Eden. He said that whether we reached this Paradise or not is our own responsibility. The service came to a close by a prayer rendered by Rev. Saterlee.

THE FRESHMAN COUNCIL ORGANIZED AT CLEMSON

Thirty-four Men in Council—Six More to Be Added—Officers to be Elected Soon.

Several meetings have been held recently and some very interesting work is ahead of the Council. Plans for one of the best Councils are being formulated. Adams, Fulmer, Bagnal, Byrd, Ervin, Gettys, Bowen, Furman, Hutcheson, Glenn, Garrison, Jordan, Keller, Latham, Livingston, Morris, McGrew, Martin, Monta, Mitchell, Miller, Nally, Phillips, Quattlebaum, Patrick, Reid, Thackston, Lambert, Whetstone, Wiggins, Walker, and Wallace are some of the men who are taking active part in the early beginnings of this organization.

Mr. Ralph Wiggins, chairman of the New Students Committee, is acting as councilor, and a number of upper classmen and others have helped in the selection of this group of men. It is likely that some of the members will propose the names of others within a short time, and the full complement of forty will be voted in. The election of officers is scheduled to take place soon. Every man is being given ample opportunity to know all the others and it is believed that some excellent men will be chosen.

We hope to secure a Faculty Advisor soon. "The best is not too good."

GOSPEL TEAM AT METHODIST CHURCH

The Gospel Team with Mr. J. Roy Cooper as speaker, conducted the services at the Methodist church Sunday morning, November 24, in the absence of Rev. Mr. Hodges.

Preceding the speaker a cello solo was rendered by Mr. E. J. Freeman. Then J. R. Cooper gave a very instructive talk on "The Naturalness of Prayer." He brought out the fact that a person did not have to be reminded to eat or sleep, but it seemed different in prayer. He said people should not have to be reminded to pray, but it should come to them. He also stated that God answered prayers as he saw fit in the manner that he saw fit. This inspiring service ended with a beautiful prayer offered up by Mr. Cooper.

BIBLE STUDY GET-TO-GETHER

All members, teachers, and assistant teachers of the Freshman Bible Study classes assembled in the "Y" auditorium after supper Thursday night, for a get-together. This meeting came just after the completion of the six weeks course that has been held in barracks for an hour every Tuesday night.

At this meeting a few remarks were made by the president of each class. These remarks were mainly on the points that were brought out in the classes that were of interest and help to them. Some of the faculty leaders that were present expressed the pleasure and benefit of association that they derived in their contact with the student.

For the pleasure of everyone present, after the meeting was over, a comedy was shown. During the picture everyone was served with Eskimo pies.

The number that attended the weekly meeting plainly show the interest that was taken in trying to make the classes a success.

PROF. SHERMAN AD- DRESSES SOPH. COUNCIL

Members of the Sophomore Council considered themselves fortunate in having Professor Sherman address them November 19th on the subject "Can Evolution be in Keeping with the Doctrine of the Christian Religion?" In a logical and most interesting manner the speaker appeared for a liberal rather than a literal interpretation of the Scriptures. It was shown that those who interpret the Bible liberally experience no lasting difficulty in harmonizing evolution with the Christian Religion.

Prof. Sherman doubtless would be glad to talk with any student who feels that science is antagonistic to religion, and who at the same time would like to face the facts squarely. The Professor is a genuine friend to students, and is ever ready to be of any possible service to them.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

How few people know there are two sets of Ten Commandments in the Bible and how few realize that those differing codes show marked advances in regard to the observance of women in society! But there are. The fourth and tenth Commandments, showing great advances in each of these phases of the Jewish and through it the Christian religion.

The first code is in Exodus twenty, the second in Deuteronomy five. Exodus twenty ought to be read in connection with the first story of Creation as contained in the first chapter and first four verses of the second chapter of Genesis. For these two together give us to understand that man was made for the purpose of keeping holy the Sabbath. Deuteronomy reasons rather that the Sabbath was made for man to be a day of rest and joy, joyous remembrance of Jehovah's goodness and mercy to His people. If we took the attitude toward the Lord's Day in the week which the Deuteronic Code gives us, there would be little further question of "blue laws." For the emphasis though the command is the same in Exodus and Deuteronomy, but the reason for the emphasis is different. The emphasis in Deuteronomy is positive. Keep the Sabbath because of God's goodness, His mighty Hand and outstretched arm, because of His love and care for his people. The emphasis in Exodus is negative—"Thou shalt not do this or that." Deuteronomy simply says "Rest and remember God." This ought to lead to a more joyful consecration of of its positive emphasis. This was more in keeping with Jesus view. He said, "The Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath."

Surely if we had anything like the constant conscientiousness of God's mercy and goodness, that animated the lives of the writers of Deuteronomy there wouldn't be any question of desecrating the Lord's Day. Likewise there'd be no question of making that Day "bule" or unhappy. We would look upon it as a day made for man, a day of blessing, of rest and joy—joy in remembering the Goodness of our Maker.

SOPHOMORE COUNCIL MEETS

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 19, at 6:45 the Sophomore Council met in the Ladies Club Room at the Y. M. C. A. After a short devotional Prof. D. B. Sherman gave a most interesting talk on "Can Evolution be in Accordance with Christian Religion?" He pointed out some facts and based his discussion around these truths in a very instructive manner. Everyone present felt that it was a privilege to have been there and to have heard this topic discussed.

Immediately following this phase of the meeting a short business session was held. Four new members were taken into the Council. These were: Sam Verner, D. M. Cox, G. W. Chavous, and H. F. Cannon. The Council is glad to welcome these fellows into the group and feels sure that they will do their parts in carrying on the work of the "Y" at Clemson.

The meeting was closed with a chain of sentence prayers.

MELTING POT

Sweet Briar To The Front

Probably the first girls college in the south to allow smoking on its campus is Sweet Briar College. The Sweet Briar News says that Sweet Briar has now taken her place among the leading women's colleges in another way. The highest consumption of cigarettes, we suppose, will soon be an asset to the female institutions.

Westward, Ho

According to the Tulane Hullabaloo the scent of Pasadena roses is already beginning to permeate the Tulane campus. By a string of comparisons in results that looks like a family tree the Hullabaloo comes to the conclusion that Pittsburgh doesn't look so much better than Tulane. Without the comparative scores Tulane looks as good as anybody to us—even Tennessee.

JUST SO

Opinions on kissing seem to be in vogue today. In the Blue Stocking we find a little argument between three young ladies on the subject of kissing. One says that she has kissed only two boys in her life, and is thereupon pronounced the "Original innocent girl". Another declares that no girl should kiss a boy until her fifth date with him, but the third sees no reason why she couldn't kiss her boy friends on the second date. Wonder what the Winthrop girls think about the subject. Let's see—from three girls we get three different views; wonder if we'd get fifteen hundred different opinions here. Oh, well, "Every person to his own taste," said the old woman as she kissed her cow.—The Johnsonian.

We would like to get the inside dope on the referendum when it's held. We would like to roster form with the number representing each girl's opinion by her name. We promise it will be held in absolute confidence.

And we are willing to bet that the old woman that kissed her cow didn't have her "Mrs."

Prof. Holmes—State the number of the last amendment added to the S. S. Constitution, and tell for what the amendment provides.

Freshman—The nineteenth; Equal Suffrage. The women have a right to suffer as well as the men.

When a girl is sixteen, she's good looking.

When she's twenty-five, she has wrinkles.

When she's thirty, she has gray hair.

When she's thirty-five she turns blonde and starts all over again.

"See that girl with the checked dress?"

"My gosh, do they check that too?"

Artist (talking to model)—I wish you wouldn't wear such tight garters—(looking closer) and for goodness sake, quit sitting on those cane bottom chairs.

"I think that war veterans make mighty good husbands, don't you?"

"Yes, they always know what to do after you've shot them."

Nat Watson—How did you get the grease on your face?

Joe Hallman—Well, you see, our car broke down and I had to fix it.

Nat—Since when do you grease your car with red grease?

"Hey, your lights are out."

"I know it. I just put some of this prohibition alcohol in the radiator and they went blind."

"I wanna quarter's worth of rat poison."

"Do you want to take it with you?"

"No, I'll send the rats after it."

Co-ed (at the end of the quarter)—Now that you have kissed me, professor, what do you think?

Prof.—You'll fail. I need you in my class next quarter.

Dean—My boy, do you drink?

Stude—No, sir.

Dean—How unfortunate. My brother in Scotland sent me two cases of Scotch and since I don't drink, I am trying to dispose of it.

Helen—How is my dog different from the planet Mars?

Blazes—Well, how?

Helen—We know my dog is inhabited.

She—Isn't he connected with you by marriage in some way?

He—Yes, he married my fiancé.

Little Emily ran in the house, crying as though her heart would break, her mother.

"My dolly, Billy broke it," she sobbed.

How did he break it?"

"I hit him on the head with it."

Student—Hey, I wanna exchange this book.

Doc. McCollum—To late; you've had it a whole term.

Student—But I just found out that every other page is missing.

Strawberry Youngblood is so lazy he can't decide whether to stay in bed all morning or to get up early so he'll have a longer day to loaf.

First Doc—In all my experience I've never seen so many scars on one man.

Second Doc—War veteran or husband?

"What's a cowslip?"

"Just a bovine indiscretion, Nellie, just a bovine indiscretion."

Prof. Shelly—How does Rose like your new mustache?

Johnny Rodgers—Darn it, I forgot to show it to her.

"Rastus, how much money do you make a week?"

Well sur, when I works, I makes five dollars, an' when I doesn't I makes ten.'

I call her my automobile girl—I like to choke her.

"I say" asked the sweet young thing discussing a trip to Montreal.

"How do you ask for water in French?"

"Avez-vous" began the other, then broke off. "But shall we want any water in Montreal?"

That beautiful dame, Greta Garbo.

He: So you think it would be foolish for me to marry a girl who is my mental inferior?

She: No, impossible.

No, Rosewa'd, I can never be more than a sister to you.

All right—kiss brother good night.

A summer school co-ed says that Doctor Fouts Hunter of Chemistry wasn't interesting. He didn't teach her anything except chemistry.

And there's the Scotchman who bought a lifetime fountain pen in his baby's name.

Motorist: Is it very far to the next town?

Native: Well, it seems farther'n it is, but it ain't.

"Father, I'm engaged."

"Can she cook?"

"Hell no. But she can change a tire."

"What are all those men doing in a circle with their heads together? Is it a football team?"

"No, just a bunch of Scotchmen lighting a cigarette."

She—Could I try on that blue dress in the window?

He—Why, er, that's the lamp shade.

If you think dimpled knees are not scarce just try to get hold of one.

Knight: Fair Queen, can I be of any service to you?

Queen: No thanks, the King is home.

'29: Have you been hunting in the right place?

Is she a wonderful girl?

Yes, figuratively speaking.

He. Come on, just one kiss.

She: I'm not a retailer.

I've taken my fun where I've found it.

How do you know she's a lady?

Oh, 'cause when I necked her she made me take off my hat.

Chapel Speaker: I made myself a success. I started life as a bare-foot boy.

Voice from the Rear: I wasn't born with shoes on myself.

You're quite an amateur at kissing.

Think so? Well it took a lot of practice to get that 'first time' effect.

Why did you kiss me in the dark?

Raged homely Sally Lou.

Now that I've seen you in the light I sort of wonder, too.

Are you majoring in Military Science?

Nope, just Second Lieutenanting.

Pipes save no midnight oil

IF PIPES made the man, anybody at all could rise in the world just by smoking a few pounds of Edgeworth. But pipes do not make the man.

Men make the pipe—most men do. Somewhat depends on the individual, more on the pipe, and the tobacco is most important of all. Things must be congenial.

Edgeworth is a congenial tobacco, cool, slow-burning, fully flavored. Edgeworth has poise, kindly good nature, real tobacco personality—Edgeworth welcomes new friends. Many a good man has been pledged to pipes by Edgeworth alone.

Like to meet Edgeworth? Just ask with the coupon—and the postman will bring your first few pipefuls of the genuine, three years seasoned if it's a day. Our treat, if you please.

Others have found Edgeworth and quit their discontent.

So may it be with you!

EDGEWORTH

Edgeworth is a careful blend of good tobaccos—selected especially for pipe-smoking. Its quality and flavor never change. Buy it anywhere—“Ready Rubbed” or “Plug Slice”—15¢ pocket package to pound humidifier tin.

MINARET CLUB OFFERS EXHIBIT OF PRINTS

Japanese Prints to Be on Sale

The Minaret Club of Architecture has brought to Clemson a very interesting exhibit of Japanese color prints. These prints hold a unique place in the history of Japanese art. They are the story-telling pictures of the common people, depicting familiar scenes of every day life. As it is possible to make many prints of the same subject inexpensively, people of small means are now able to enjoy the work of the greatest Japanese artists. These prints are the works of the Orient that correspond to our Occidental illustrations.

For many years these beautiful old prints were not highly valued by the Japanese. However, when Americans and Europeans interested by the writings of Lafcadio Hearn, Pierre Lotus, Whistler, and other appreciators of the East, began making collections of them, the Japanese government became active, and now it is very difficult to buy one of the original old prints.

The prints in the exhibit here are reproductions of the Old Masters. The collection is a large and varied one, and is now on display in the studio on the third floor of Riggs Hall. The public in general is invited to visit the exhibition which will last about ten days.

The prints are for sale, ranging in price from 25 cents to $1.50 each, and will make very desirable Christmas gifts. The proceeds from the sale will go toward the expenses of the Minaret's Club entertainment next spring.

CAMPUS NOTES

Mrs. Mae Satterlee entertained a large number of friends at a reception given last Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. J. G. Gee entertained at a luncheon on Friday morning, honoring her mother, Mrs. T. C. Gibbs.

Mrs. R. K. Eaton entertained at bridge on Monday afternoon in honor of Mrs. T. C. Gibbs, of Huntsville, Texas.

The Evening Bridge Club met on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Henry.

Mrs. W. W. Fitzpatrick entertained the Wednesday morning Bridge Club this week at her home in North Clemson.

Mrs. J. E. Hunter entertained the John C. Calhoun Chapter of the U. D. C. on Monday afternoon.

Mrs. George Klugh of Atlanta, Ga., is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. G. Gee.

Miss Elizabeth Dargan of Winthrop College spent the week-end on the campus.

Miss Elizabeth Watson was the week-end guest of Mrs. F. T. Dargan.

Miss Mary Bryan of Converse College spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Bryan.

Miss Margaret Harrison of Abbeville is the guest of Mrs. M. E. Bradley.

BEAUTY SECTION ENTRIES WANTED

There will be pictures of only sixteen girls in this year's TAPS, therefore this section of the book will be outstanding. It will be quite an honor for any girl to win a place among these beauties. The staff is anxious to get pictures of many beautiful women and it is calling on the cadets to furnish them. Every cadet at Clemson knows girls with the required qualification; write and ask them for pictures—they will feel complimented. Any size picture can be used. It should be black and white glossy finish, unmounted. Tinted pictures are not desirable as they photograph poorly. Entries will be taken as late as January 15th, but pictures should be written for at once. The beauties this year will probably be picked by "Ye olde Beauty Judge" John Held, Jr. Submit entries to the editor in room C-1.

CADETS ENJOY McCRAVY BROTHERS

All Like Old Southern Melodies as Presented by Trio

The McCravy Brothers gave a stellar performance here Saturday night, November 23. These two talented musicians are well known in the musical world of today, being connected with several radio broadcasting stations, as well as having made quite a few records for the different talking machine companies throughout the country.

The program opened with the three musicians, the two McCravy brothers and their sister, rendering several different ballads and interpretations of southern folk songs. The two brothers sang many different numbers accompanied by Miss McCravy on the piano.

One of the numbers enjoyed most was the jokes and parodies given on different popular and classical pieces. Several numbers were given on the violin by the younger of the two brothers who was accompanied by the piano. Not the least of the program however, was the interludes played by the McCravy brothers on the guitar. And of course no program given in South Carolina could be perfect without "Carolina Moon" and this piece was given a front seat in this musical program.

In all the McCravy Bros. seemed to have made a fine impression on the people of Clemson College, and we hope to have them back.

CLUBS AND SOCIETIES

The regular meeting of the Clemson College branch A. I. E. E. was held in room 100 of Riggs Hall at 6:45 P. M. on Thursday November 21, 1929.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, after which the following students papers were presented: "Radio Tests to Eliminate Fading", by J. J. Butler; "How Engineers View Life", by J. M. McPherson; "Cub Signals for Railroad Signals", by D. R. Bostick; "Current Events", by C. V. Rentz.

An illustrated lecture, "The Life of Thomas Edison", was then given by W. M. Estes. Film slides were used in connection with the talk and showed the earliest laboratories of the great inventor together with developments that have resulted from his work.

Mr. Klenke, General Electric contact man for Clemson, was present at the meeting and talked to the branch about the General Electric courses for college graduates and the opportunities for young men. He told the members about the making of films, such as was used in the lecture on Edison's life for it is in his department that they are made. The meeting for the most sucfensive power was likewise too weak to tally. During the first two quarters the ball sea-sawed up and down the territory lying between the two twenty-yard markers. This part of the game which ended in a scoreless tie, was characterized only by the extremely great number of punts by both teams and the superb footwork of Evans Wilson of Citadel, which was a feature of the entire afternoon.

At the opening of the third frame, the Big Man saw the great need for figures and trotted out his top-notchers. The difference was at once significant; for it was only a short time until thirteen points appeared in the Bengal column that had just previously been adorned by a zero. When this was accomplished, the offensive Tiger team was recalled and sent to the showers in order that they might save their strength for the Thanksgiving engagement with the Purple Hurricane of Furman. The remainder of the contest was slow and very similar to that of the first half. The team from the Seaside City was never able to muster sufficient drive to threaten the Tier goal. The Bulldogs lost more yardage than they gained.

JOHNNY KLENKE IN- TERVIEWS STUDENTS

G. E. Contact Man Talks to Engineering Students About General Electric Works

Mr. John Klenke, General Electric contact man for Clemson, visited here on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The purpose of his visit was to look over the engineering seniors in view of prospective employees for the General Electric Company Test Course.

In the General Electric, each of the colleges from which a large number of engineering students are drawn every year has what is known as a "contact man". This man is an alumnus of that college and is one who is well acquainted with the company and the heads of the various departments.

The object of having these contact men is mainly to help the boys who come to the company to work. New employees in a strange place are often placed in difficult situations and it is reassuring to know that there is someone to whom he can take his troubles, and who has his interests at heart.

Mr. Klenke interviewed the Seniors on Friday and Saturday merely to obtain some advance information on the graduating class. He will recommend to Mr. Boring or to Mr. Means those men who he thinks are best, and when either of these two visits Clemson in February the final choice will be made.

Mr. Klenke was a visitor at the A. I. E. E. meeting on Thursday night in the Engineering Building. He commented on the program and offered suggestions as to the ways in which the student papers should be given. Afterwards he talked of the General Electric Company, its activities, and the great opportunities that it offers to young college men.

Successful one in some time, fifty-four being present. This is probably the largest percentage of the total student attendance reached by any college at chapter meetings. Watch for the flashing electric sign "A. I. E. E." above the guard room and be sure to come down to the meeting right after supper.

BELL TEL. MAN MAY VISIT HERE

Mr. Weisiger May Talk to Engineering Students Here

Mr. Kendall Weisiger, Assistant to the President of the Southern Bell Telephone Company, may visit Clemson between Thanksgiving and Christmas to talk to the cadets. He may speak to the student body as a whole or he may limit his talk to the local branch of the A. I. E. E.

The Bell System, which includes the Western Electric Company and other subsidiary companies, has in its service about fifty Clemson men. This is a larger number than any other college in the South can claim. All of these men have fine records and it is with confidence that the telephone now chooses its men from Clemson. It might be due to this record that a man as important as Mr. Weisiger can come up from Atlanta to talk to the students of Clemson.

The Bell System chooses for its training course only those students who graduate with degrees of E. E. and M. E. When picking employees for the commercial and accounting departments graduates with Commercial or Arts and Science degrees are taken.

Mr. Weisiger may come to Clemson soon on a preliminary inspection trip to look over the prospects for employees among the present senior class. Those who he will take may consider themselves lucky for they will receive a thorough training, they will have a good job, and a fine employer as long as they continue to uphold the standards as already set by previous graduates.

PROF TAKES CHICKEN

FOR A RIDE

A well known Clemson professor keeps his car in the chicken house. One night last week he made a trip to Anderson to see a show. After the show, he declares that he found a nice rooster resting on his gas tank. Some will believe that, others may not, but it is definitely known that when he came back to Clemson his companion was clinging tenaciously to a fine young rooster.

INTERESTING FACTS AND WORLD NEWS

Radio Tests to Eliminate Fading

Immediately following the musical numbers constituting the regular program of broadcasting to the Byrd Expedition at Little America which was transmitted recently by the Westinghouse Station KDKA, Pittsburgh, listeners heard a long drawn out "buzz", which was maintained for five minutes. This "buzz" constituted the first of a highly important series of tests in which the radio experts of KDKA are cooperating with those of the Byrd Expedition. The object of these experiments is to secure a better understanding of one of the radio's most mysterious phenomena—"blind spots", or "dead areas". While some of these "dead spots" are caused by peculiarities of land configuration, others cannot be explained so easily, and many scientists now believe that the trouble is chiefly due to the so-called "Heaviside Layer", a stratum which surrounds the earth.

November Anniversaries

The great world war ended on November 11, 1918. Thanksgiving will be celebrated on the twenty-eighth of this month. That famous Voltaire was born on the 24th day of November in 1694. Gen. John Glover, who commanded the "Marine Regiment" that transported Washington's army across the Delaware just before the battle of Trenton, was born at Salem, Mass., Nov. 5, 1732. Warren G. Harding, 29th president of the United States, was born at Corsica (then Blooming Grove), Ohio, in 1865 on the second day of this month. General Philip van Cortlandt, who accompanied Gen. Lafayette on his tour of this country in 1824, died at Croton-on-Hudson, November 1, 1831.

Grid Players Found Poor Students

Missouri University's football men do most of their "showing off" on the gridiron and not in classrooms. A survey of group grades by Dr. Albert K. Heckel, dean of men, shows the gridgers at the foot of the list. Freshman football players were a trifle worse than the varsity. Basketball and non-fraternity men were below the average of all groups during the last scholastic year. Debaters, both men and women, were among the best students at the University.

Federal Department of Education

It is a deplorable fact that 5,000,000 people in this country over ten years of age cannot read or write. The District of Columbia Daughters of America recently adopted a resolution urging creation of a Department of Education in the Federal Government, with a Secretary in the President's Cabinet.

Zuppke Honored by College Humor

Robert C. Zuppke, whose University of Illinois eleven survived a hectic season in the Western Conference last year to win the football title, has the distinction of being the first person honored by College Humor Magazine for marked success on the football field. The Illinois coach, whose teams have been a constant menace to schools throughout the country since he took charge of the grid staff at Illinois, has consistently developed championship contenders.

In recognition of Zuppke's winning the Big Ten title two consecutive seasons and his contribution to college athletics, College Humor recently presented him with a beautiful Gruen Paladin watch, "The Croix de Guerre of American Achievement." This is a first of a series of watches to be presented to coaches, faculty members and students whose achievements in the collegiate field entitle them to the honor.

College Broadcasts

College students as well as Alumni will be interested to know that the college musical organization broadcasts such as those featured by Amherst, Dartmouth, Illinois, Northwestern, Columbia, Ohio State, University of Pennsylvania, and others last year will be continued this year. College Humor Magazine and the Kolster Company will sponsor these programs which may be heard over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

A Telephone Service Record

During the next five years expenditures by the American Telephone industries for increased service will exceed the $1,900,000,000 spent during the last five years. Every community in our country will benefit by domestic improvements. The scope of the service is to be extended and its standards raised. The telephone has a motto, "To give the best possible service at the least possible cost". Among the great possibilities is the field of television.

TIGERS DEFEAT BULLDOGS

SPORTS

CLEMSON 13, CITADEL 0

And the Big Man used his first stringers for only one period. During the entire first half and the fourth quarter Josh held his offensive team on the bench. The second team held the Bulldogs to a nothing to the same tie for the first two periods, then the Tiger coach trotted out his headliners to push over two touchdowns in quick succession. When this was accomplished, the offensive aggregation was withdrawn and sent to the showers. The Jovial Genius is taking no unnecessary chances before the Turkey Day affair with the Big Wind. At least, a muddy field seemed to hinder the opposing team as much as it did Clemson.

YARBOROUGH AND GASSAWAY STAR

Mule Yarborough and Jim Gassaway, both relief linemen, were virtually towers of strength in the vanguard of the Tiger team. These two boys, who are both fourth year men, crowned themselves with glory as they played some of the most brilliant football ever witnessed in Tigertown. They both spent much of their defensive time in the Bulldog backfield. While on the offensive they played a great part in the ripping of the Canine forward septete.

TOMORROW—THANKSGIVING AND HOMECOMING

Only one more obstacle lies between the Codymen in their drive toward the undisputed State Championship; this is Furman. The very name strikes a cord in the hearts of every Tiger that sends a feeling of determination to "do or die" through the entire body. Tiger-Hurricane rivalry is known and felt through the entire Palmetto state and even into some of the neighboring units of the Union. The Turkey Day classic which is a long-established institution, has for many years been staged in Greenville; but this year the scene will be laid on Mutt Gee's own prize lawn in the lair of a capable and determined Tiger. Besides being the famed Thanksgiving classic as far as the Sand Lapper fans of the great collegiate games are concerned, the game tomorrow is the main event on the annual Homecoming day for the sons of Mr. Clemson's A. and M. College. It is also the last chance that football enthusiasts of this section will have to enjoy their favorite game this season.

Probable Line-up to Include Many Who Will Don the Garb of a Tiger Gridster for the Last Time

At the time of this writing, it is rumored through these open spaces that Coach Josh Cody will start a lineup of all seniors with the exception of one man. Fordham, a Sophomore, the rumor says, will probably play the pivot position. Should this rumor be true, the Bengal line-up will include most of the following men: Padgett, McMillan, McCarey, Hane, Jones, Woodruff, Asbill, Swofford, Gunnels, Yarborough, McGill, Gassaway, and Rodgers. All Yellow Peril supporters will be indeed glad to learn that at this time it is probable that Jones and Woodruff, the two superb Tiger wingmen will return to Clemson next year and will again thrill the crowds by snatching pigskins from the atmosphere.

RATS LOSE TO FLORIDA

Joe Guyon's Tiger Cubs journeyed down to the Sunny State and closed the season by losing to the University of Florida first year men by a score of 23 to 13. Despite the fact that the Little Tigers suffered two reverses this season, the Big Indian has some mighty promising material that he has developed remarkably. Many of his boys will bear watching next season.

BASKETBALL TEAM STARTS PRACTICING

Turkey Day marks the close of football season as far as Clemson is concerned. However, as the curtain is lowered on this sport, the stage hands reach for the ropes to draw the veil from around another major athletic game. The Jungaleer veterans of the hardwood court

Thirty uniformed policeman will be on duty in the field. These have been borrowed from nearby cities. They will be assisted by some thirty other deputies, state constables, and plain clothes officers. Thus adequate police protection is assured the spectators.

The entire lobby floor of the Y. M. C. A. building will be placed off limits to cadets and will be reserved for the exclusive use of ladies.

Turkey dinners will be served in the old gymnasium by E. C. King of Anderson, who has prepared a tempting menu at a very attractive price. Dinners will be served beginning at ten o'clock Thursday.

The game will start at two o'clock and officials particularly urge that spectators reach their seats before this hour. Every effort will be made to seat the fans with promptness and dispatch, but the size of the crowd expected will tax gate facilities in the event of a last minute rush.

With paved highways extending for long stretches in every direction from Clemson, it is anticipated that a great delegation of spectators will take advantage of their last opportunity to witness a college football contest in South Carolina this season. It will be Furman's first appearance on Riggs field in five years.

BABY GATORS DEFEAT CLEMSON CUBS

Floridians Double Score of Clemson Frosh

The Baby Gators of the University of Florida defeated the Clemson College Rats 26 to 13 Saturday at Jacksonville in a game which was waged chiefly in the air.

Neither team was able to flash a running attack, and both sides resorted to passes to make up for this deficiency. No less than 40 passes were heaved during the melee, and all of the six touchdowns made by both elevens were chalked up as a result of overhead tosses.

Clearly outplayed in the first half, the Cubs came back strong in the last session to score two touchdowns. The Gators did not have a look-in in this last frame until the last minute of play, when a long pass placed the oval on the three-yard strips just before the game ended.

Rogero, Florida halfback, proved to be a passer de luxe. He tossed the slippery pigskin with unerring accuracy and was responsible for all his team's scoring. The Cubs had a great forward passer too, in Miller. This young man, who hails from Tampa, made life miserable for his fellow Floridians.

Statistics show that the Little Gators chalked up fifteen first downs to eight for the Tigers. Thirteen of Florida's fifteen first downs came in the first half, and all of Clemson's were made in the second.

On an exchange of punts at the start of the game Florida gained twenty yards, and from Clemson's 44-yard line the Gators marched down the field to their first touchdown. The Baby Gators registered their second counter a few minutes later, when Toph recovered Miller's fumble on the Cub 8-yard line. From here a pass from Sherrill to Rogero was good for the score.

As the second period opened Joe Guyon injected ten new players into the fray. On an exchange of kicks, Brown fumbled on his own 5-yard line, and on a Florida player recovered. On a double reverse play, Melton skirted right end for the third touchdown.

The last Florida score came as a result of two long runs by Rogero that put the ball on the Tiger's 8-yard line. Jenkins ploughed into center for three yards. Rogero dashed through right tackle and cut back to the one yard strip. On the next play, Jenkins went over guard for the touchdown.

The Cubs showed their first signs of an offensive in the opening minutes of the third period. Miller heaved a 25-yard pass to Rivers who cut diagonally across the field for 35 more yards after accepting the toss. He was brought down on Florida's 16-yard line. Miller flipped a pass to Davis for eleven more yards, placing the oval five yards from home, sweet home. Three line plays were smothered, and on the fourth down Miller passed to Davis over the goal line, but he fumbled the ball.

Later in the period, Miller passed to Craig for a neat gain of 23-yards, getting a first down on Floridians' 22-yard line. Miller completed a pass to Rivers for 12 yards. Miller bucked the ball up to the two-yard line, and Chapman sneaked through center for the score on the next play.

A clever aerial attack in the final period netted the Tigers another touchdown. Three successful passes gave Clemson a first down on Florida's 3-yard line. Wilson crashed through center for the touchdown.

The game ended in a deluge of passes, both teams hurling them with reckless abandon. The final whistle probably knocked the Gators out of another touchdown, for they had the ball on Clemson's 3-yard line when the game ended.

The forward walls of both teams exhibited an airtight defense throughout the entire game. Footsey Davis and Craig in the Cub line were bulwarks of strength on offense as well as defense.
